SUNDAY SERVICES

10am - Morning Worship (includes facilities for children)

Our services are warm and cordial. We include traditional and contemporary hymns and songs, led by our Worship Group.

The sermons are Bible based and are sometimes themed over several weeks. Holy Communion is generally on the second Sunday of every month. After the service everyone is welcome to join us for refreshments; a time for a chat and to get to know each other.

6.30pm - Monthly Evening Holy Communion

This is usually the fourth Sunday of the month, and is a small intimate service of Communion with about 15 or so people, some from other churches in the village. You are welcome to join us.

If you would like to worship on a Sunday evening when we do not have a service, our local Anglican church, Holy Trinity, Chobham Road, has a service at 6.30pm on the 1st Sunday of the month.

Message from Dave:

Dear Friends,

You will have heard recently that I have a contribution in a forthcoming anthology for Advent and Christmas. I have been asked to tell the story of how this came to be.

It all started fifteen years ago, during my first sabbatical from ministry. I booked on a week's 'Creative Writing' course in London with an organisation called the Association of Christian Writers. I already had the bug from writing a regular newspaper column at the time, and that course increased my enthusiasm.

Since then, I have harboured a desire to write. For a long while, I kept a blog on the Internet, but I found it too time-consuming and I ran out of steam. Since then, I've still had the itch to write but not know what my subject should be. A church member has challenged me to write a book that relates theology in a popular way to everyday life – but what area of theology? I don't know! Answers on a postcard?

About a year ago, the ACW announced they were compiling a devotional book for Lent 2018, and they invited contributions. It didn't strike me at the time that this was something I could have done – well, not until after it was published, and I regretted missing the boat.

So earlier this year, when the ACW said they were going to repeat this for Advent, I decided I mustn't miss my opportunity. I knew that the sermon I had given at last December's Christmas Eve midnight communion service had helped one or two people, and so I rewrote it, edited it, and submitted it. To my astonishment, I soon received an email saying it had been accepted.

And to my even greater pleasure, I learned the next day that my sister (who also belongs to ACW) had submitted a piece as well, and hers was going to be published, too. Both of us have been published before, but it has been articles and book reviews we have written for professional journals. Neither of us has appeared in a book itself before.

As I write this I don't yet have final confirmation of the price and publication date, but I will make those known as soon as I have the information.

The reason I am telling people about the book now (apart from a certain sense of excitement) is that the book will have only one print run. Thus, the editors are asking the writers to decide how many author copies they want to buy in order to sell.

So that is why I am asking people to express an interest now if they think they might buy the book. I am not asking for a binding commitment. If the final price is more than you can afford and you need to back out, I will not sulk! However, it is likely to be priced in such a way that I am unlikely to make a profit from the sales.

Are there any unexpected ways in which God is calling you to use your gifts? Davo, Janline

Your friend and minister,

'Merry Christmas, Everyone: A Festive Feast of Poems. Stories and Reflections', will be a one-off print run, and I shall therefore only have one opportunity to order author copies. I do not yet know the price (but I shall do so soon) and so I am not asking for firm orders but I would like to hear about expressions of interest to help me gauge how many copies to order. If you are interested, please contact me:

Church Family News

Many of you will remember Jenna Stockwell; who married to Michael back in August. We congratulate them and wish them all the best.

Congratulations to Jonathan Gurd, who started an apprenticeship with National Rail in Coventry in September.

Over the summer months there have been folk from our church who have had operations or have had accidents, keeping them in hospital for while, with long convalescents since then. Our prayers are with them at this time. Those we know about are:

Joan Bearman, Desna Berry, Tom Meller, Linda Flude, Noddy Ford (Nelly Ford's Husband), Vida Roberts

Their Pastoral Leaders and many others have been visiting and keeping in touch with them all. Please continue to remember them in your prayers.

THE KMC BROADWAY GROUP

James Geard gave us an update in church on 16th September. Below is an abridged transcript of his words:

I would like to bring you up to date with how things are developing within our church; things that have happened in the past, and also things that are likely to be happening in the future; this largely brought about not just the activities of the KMC Broadway Group, but lots of other people within the church.

A while ago I read a phrase in a book, and it said "as a Christian, our role is to change lives for good through the power of God's word." Each and every time we undertake an activity we ask our selves, "is what we're doing in our church changing lives for good through the power of God's word?" One thing that we're absolutely certain of is that nothing we do in that regard will be neutral; either what we do will change lives for good, or it won't. What I want to share with you today is how you, over these last two years, have been helping change lives for good.

It's almost two years ago when, at our AGM, there was a great deal of concern, worry and anxiety about where we were going. At that time we were facing that year a financial deficit of something approaching £15,000, and rising. At Broadway Group last week, Lynda presented our financial figures for the current year, and I can tell you that this year we are running with a surplus of £12,500. Through your generosity, through the work of other people, through the work of people like Mike Allison with lettings, you have turned what was a catastrophic position of a very significant deficit into the position of a significant surplus in just two years. That is absolutely incredible! We are all extraordinarily grateful to every single one of you for what you have done.

Part of the outreach of this church, part of changing lives for good, is our Clothing Bank. If you have not seen what goes on during a Clothing Bank Saturday, and prior, by the people to provide those facilities, I urge you to come. I was lucky enough to be there, not vesterday, but the one before, and I met a 4-year old boy, and his family. His mother is partially sighted to the extent that she needed the aid of a dog. His grandmother was with them. They live in the area, in a 2 bedroomed flat; very small. Because of her sight, the boy's mum is restricted in what she can do for work. But she works. She walks people's dogs, she dog sits, she home sits, she does what ever she can to raise money - but clearly they struggle terribly. The grandmother is not young; she's happy to welcome them into her home, and she was happy to welcome her other son with a new child, because he had nowhere to go. The little boy I met didn't have any shoes that he could use. We did. I watched him run from Room 3 up to where we serve coffee, and I heard him say, "I've got new shoes and I can run really fast now!" That's what Clothing Bank does. That's how it changes lives. They also took some other stuff and I helped them take it out to their car. The car had more dents in it than most other cars I have seen. I have never in my life seen more joyful people. There was no complaint, there was no "woe is me", there was no "someone owes me a living". That's what you do; that's what Clothing Bank does. The generosity of our community here has been overwhelming. Occasionally you don't get so many people; perhaps just one family, but don't ever think because we only have one family, that the work the people put in getting ready for that isn't worth it. If you change one life for good through the power of God's word, everything that's gone in is worth it.

During the course of the next few weeks or months, we're going to be working on developing an area where parents can bring their children and stay within the church. We've had discussions already, we've had people in to look. It's going to be done by moving and relocating a few of the pews. This is now active; we have agreement on budgets, we have people who are dedicated to getting it done and we have an excellent firm who work in our Circuit to do the work. We will start to do the work to coincide with our move into the Hall to hold services for the winter period. We will be able to provide an area where we can welcome young people and their parents which will be dedicated just to them. Changing lives for good through the power of God's word. As we lead up to Christmas, it has been agreed that we will run two particular functions, reaching out to our community. The first will be on oth December, when we will hold an Afternoon Tea for those that, perhaps don't get the same opportunity to go out and meet other people. We will provide the tea, whilst the Worship Group sing Carols. It will be from 3pm to 5pm, and we want as many people to come as possible. Through your generosity we can do it. We have the funds to do it. We can reach out to those people, we can change lives for good through the power of God's word.

On 5th January, we are going to run a similar function, but this time for children who don't get the same opportunities as other children do. We're going to provide a party for them, maybe some small gifts, and have some fun with an entertainer, just after Christmas. Through your generosity we can do it. We can change lives for good through the power of God's word.

That's where we are. All this requires organisation. Most of you will know, because you're engaged, the huge amount of work that goes on behind the scenes by so many of you. Never lose sight of the incredible commitment and giving that so many of you do. But, we need a structure in the centre, and one of the things we're going to be needing next year is two more Stewards. Stephen Gurd, after many years as a Steward, is stepping down next April. At present he has graciously taken on the role of Senior Steward; but we're going to need a couple more. When we speak about giving, if you feel, can you give your time and your talents to help us to further develop our family so that we can give more to our community, so that we can change more lives for good. Please come and talk to Linda Todd, Lynda Shore, or myself. We can talk to you about what can be involved, but we need your help. To date your generosity, your giving, has been enormous. If you could, please give prayerful thought to this; that would be great. James Geard, 16.9.18.

CAMEO GADABOUTS

The day in June was carefully chosen. The sun was shining, it was not too hot, there was no wind and there was no sign of a rain cloud. A group of intrepid travellers met by the side of the canal. They were greeted by the friendly crew who welcomed them on board their unique craft.

The vessel set off gently in a north easterly direction. After a few minutes, it was difficult to relate to any known landmarks. The water stretched ahead and the boat passed many interesting houses. The views of the houses from their gardens were illuminating. The tree houses, the artist's studio, the 3 or 4 barbecue areas, immaculate lawns!

They saw families of mallard - ducklings being looked after mainly by the ducks, while the drakes preened themselves on the bank. Moorhens with their young were practising swimming, and a family of swans seemed unperturbed by the boat turning. The cob kept a wary eye on the boat while the pen took care of the cygnets. The captain pointed out a heron on the bank, which took off and flew straight towards them. Obviously intrigued by the motley group, it landed on bank beside the boat and walked along the length of the boat, ensuring everyone had a good photo opportunity.

For the whole journey the sun shone through the trees, giving the impression they were in a green wonderland in a different world.

It came as quite a shock to arrive back at the Town Wharf in Woking and realise that in the magical world, they had not even travelled as far as West Byfleet on the Basingstoke Canal. However reality soon returned when the group crossed the busy dual carriageway. They soon reached their destination, the Cote Brasserie, where they met the rest of the group who had been unable to join the boat. The restaurant menu was varied and interesting, and the service was excellent. We had not pre-ordered, and no-one had to wait too long for their food.

Thanks must go to the generous donor who paid for everyone's meal - a very unexpected bonus. Another successful Cameo outing!

Trip to Camden Lock and Regent Canal

On 1st August Andy and I joined Eileen Lane on one of her many trips to London. After arriving at Waterloo, we got the bus to Camden High Street, (a new experience for me as I ALWAYS use the underground in London). As a child I was told to always look up when walking along a row of shops and this was a good lesson to learn as we walked along Camden High Street. Many of the shops had the most amazing sculptures on the buildings, some depicting the wares the shop was selling, some just fantastical animals – such as dragons.

Camden Market was next, what a mix of cultures and aromas from the many street food stalls. There was no time to stop as we were booked on the canal boat on the Regent Canal to go to Little Venice, the canal actually goes through Regent Park and the edge of the zoo. It was a lovely way to see this part of London from a different angle. When we got to Little Venice, some of the group decided a cup of tea and lunch was the order of the day and stayed in Little Venice (near

Water Bus from Camden to Little Venice

Paddington Station) while a few of us grabbed a quick drink and returned on the boat back to Camden so we could explore the market in more depth.

It was a thoroughly enjoyable day and thank you to Eileen for organising it. Barbara Humphries

KMC Flower Committee

We were asked to contribute an arrangement at the Woking Hospice Flower Festival in May.

The theme was "Memories" so we had a long think as to how to represent this in an interesting way.

We decided to use a square container, divide it diagonally into four sections, with the following –

"WEDDINGS" - red roses and white gyp

"CHILDREN" pink carnations, blue rock hyacinths, and doll's booties.

"GRANDPARENTS" purple and white flowers & rosemary for remembrance.

"HOLIDAYS" daisies and clover, sea shells

Hope you like the pictures!

This Harvest, we stand together with women like Aster in Ethiopia, to rejoice and call for gender justice through Christian Aid's 2018 Harvest Appeal. As we celebrate and praise God for providing all we need, we also stand with our sisters whose harvests are uncertain.

For the once-overburdened Aster, life was a constant struggle, simply because she is a woman. Farming, cooking, carrying firewood – no matter how hard she worked, she was unable to save enough money to support her family. But Aster refused to be beaten by poverty.

She came together with women in her village to set up their own shop, powered by the sun. With training from our partner, Aster and her sisters turned this shop into a thriving business that benefits her, the community and the environment.

In Aster's own words:

'Coming together as a women's group, it's like adopting sisters; another family. We share happiness and sorrow together. They share my burden and help me face my challenges.'

'Solar energy has given Aster's village not just literal power – they once had no access to electricity – but also the power to change their lives. Now Aster and her sisters can save for the future, make their children proud, and challenge traditions while caring for the planet. All this in an environment where climate change hits women and girls the hardest.'

Aster's sister, Ari, says:

'In the past women were not recognised and we were not free. Having money as women was difficult. We didn't have any reserves for the hard times or the drought.'

Now thanks to you, women like Aster have the power to own their own businesses, adapt to climate change, and nurture their environment for future generations. They have the power to transform their lives and communities.

'There are many members, yet one body in Christ. If one member suffers, all suffer together with it; if one member is honoured, all rejoice together with it.' (1 Corinthians 12:20,26)

When we stand together as one body, we rejoice to see Aster's life transformed. With your support this Harvest, we can expand on our solar energy initiatives across Ethiopia, Malawi, Burkina Faso and Honduras. Your gift will help rural women improve their lives through access to sustainable energy – £75 could train a group of women to use solar power to run their own businesses.

This Harvest, your gift goes further. Every £1 you give will be worth £5, thanks to funding from the European Union. That's five times the number of lives you can transform this year.

Together we're powerful. And together, we can create a world where everyone can live a full life, free from poverty.

EVERY DIFFICULTY IS AN OPPORTUNITY IN DISGUISE

by John Greenleaf Whittier

When things go wrong, as they sometimes will, When the road you're trudging seems all up hill, When the funds are low, and the debts are high, And you want to smile, but you have to sigh, When care is pressing you down a bit, Rest if you must, but don't you quit

Life is queer with it's twists and turns, As everyone of us sometimes learns, And many a failure turns about, When he might have won had he stuck it out, Don't give up though the pace seems slow, You may succeed with another blow.

Success is failure, turned inside out. The silver tint of the clouds of doubt, And you never can tell how close you are, It may be near when it seems so far, So stick to the fight when you're hardest hit, It's when things seem worse, that you must not quit.

The Woking & District Branch meet at KMC on the last Saurday of each month. One of their long-standing members, Daniel Jackson, now runs his own nursery in Ottershaw and this year he was awarded a Gold at Chelsea Flower show. Probably the most prestigious garden show worldwide. He was also interviewed at his nursery and on BBC Gardeners World. Since then he has been awarded Gold at other shows this summer including Hampton Court.

Hampton Court for the first time in 2017. This year he was very excited to have been asked to feature at RHS Chelsea Flower Show where he won a GOLD medal for his display and he and his family were featured on television as part of the BBC coverage. Daniel was immensely proud to have won this medal. Displaying his plants alongside the worlds horticultural best was a real honour, but seeing himself on television and dealing with the short-lived fame was really surreal!

Daniel most enjoys plant propagation, nurturing seeds/seeding to their fullest potential and looking for that ever-elusive variant that Mother Nature throws up from time to time. To this end most of what he sells comes from his own nursery in Ottershaw, Surrey.

Jack Rutter Bench

On Saturday, May 26th, in conjunction with a coffee morning and plant sale for church funds, a bench to the memory of Jack Rutter was dedicated outside Knaphill Methodist Church. Local Preacher, Elizabeth Gurd, said a few words and a prayer of dedication while friends and family gathered round.

Jack worshipped at the church from the late sixties until his death in 2010 and greatly appreciated the fellowship and mutual support he enjoyed there. His working life was spent at Imperial College, London, from undergraduate years until he retired, eventually becoming Professor of Plant Ecology in the Botany Department. At the same time, he was a modest man; friendly and generous, who worked hard in retirement. He was a loyal member of KMC. It is hoped that the bench, made of recycled plastic, will be a welcome amenity for shoppers in Knaphill.

The photo shows Dad with his two best friends from college and was taken about 1942 or 3 I would guess. Jack is on the right with his hands behind his back.

News from Ruth Pugh in Dragapur

Dear friends and family

Thank you all for your love, financial and prayer support. Every student that wished to do an exam has been entered. They are at present working very hard for these exams; 28 exams will be taken by 20 students. Mousumi is doing three (cello, piano and violin), Babul, Priyanka, David, Robina, Soumen and Subhujit are taking two each. These exams will take place on 10th and 11th October. Earlier than expected. I was told they would be after the Pujas (the series of Hindu festivals that happen in the autumn) but they are before so trying to get pieces ready. None of the children get an individual class. There are two classes a day, both from grade 1 to grade 7. When I can I fit in extra classes for grade 5 and above, but at present am unable to as they have school exams and need to work for those too.

Six students will also take their grade 5 theory exams on 3rd November. This will enable them to take the higher practical exams next year and one of the requirements needed to be a Western music teacher in the schools. The other students will take their earlier theory grades and Sanjay and Priyanka their grade 6 in March. With so many student doing exams, I have split them across two sessions.

The DCSDC Strings playing at the inauguration of St Michael's School Multi Purpose Hall in July. We have many programmes coming up in the next five months, our busy season, with a big Diocesan service celebrating the 16th Anniversary of Bishop's Consecration Day, a deacon and presbyter ordination and the licensing of eight lay readers. These services only have two congregational hymns and my musicians sing and play the rest. An average of 18 pieces of music, before the service, during and after, Most weeks an average of 12. They now have a repertoire of over 400 hymns and worship songs and 250 other pieces from many genres.

Sanjay and Priyanka performing a Vivaldi Canonic sonata.

I am still teaching in Purulia every week at St Peters School. I am picked up every Sunday afternoon and stay over night, teach and travel back on the State bus Monday afternoon after school ends. (3 hours each way) I find it a very rewarding time of the week as I use the journeys for prayer and meditation and the teaching is very different to my teaching with the Hostel students.

I am now very busy making sure all the music that is needed for DCSDC and cathedral is prepared and arranged for Christmas and for St Peters School Purulia, so that is choral, instrumental – string orchestra, guitar ensemble and keyboard ensemble.

I am also going into St Peter's School, Durgapur two mornings a week after class at DCSDC and working with the Pre Primary section to help with enhancing their teaching with different styles and also learning through play. This goes back a long way in my teaching days but I am very much enjoying the challenge that included a workshop morning on play (a small portion). I was given the curriculum to read and thought great that is good for a school in England how do I make it work for a school here. I am working with the teachers giving ideas that they can use as is or amend as they need to make work for the classes here that have at least 35-40 children in.

I am still preaching once a month in the cathedral. It is good that we have a projection system here so I can use pictures and mini movies if it applies. I often try to do this, as for the musicians that are listening it gives them visual way of hearing the message.

Dressed for Tribal Sunday.

Other forthcoming programmes, playing for the Womens Fellowship opening service, Festival of Hope, especially the Childrens Festival of Hope, DCSDC Christmas Programme, DCSDC Strings playing in St Paul's Cathedral, Kolkata (this will involve extra travelling to and fro to Kolkata as the concert is shared and 9 of my students will play with Kolkata Symphony orchestra) with CNI Synod present and all the programmes that in the cathedral – special Sundays crop up regularly needing extra music or songs.

Prayer requests:

- Please pray for all the students as they prepare for their AB music exams in October.
- For the six students who are doing their theory exam in November
- For me as I prepare all the music that is necessary for the forthcoming programmes.
- ✤ For me as I prepare my sermon.
- For the children as they prepare for the many different programmes whether it be playing, dancing or singing.
- Pray for all our health, that we will stay healthy through the weather changes.

Thank you so much for you continued financial and prayer support for my work here in Durgapur. The children are working very hard at the moment as 20 of them are taking 28 ABRSM practical exams on 10th and 11th October. Exam levels are from Grade 1 to Grade 7.

This is on top of their cathedral work that happens each week and this week (23rd September) is a big special service as it is the 16th Anniversary Thanksgiving service for the Bishop's Consecration day, ordination of a deacon (probationer) and presbyter and licencing of 8 lay readers. I shall have 27 musicians playing.

My musicians are sing a song "Beautiful Lord" (The Potter's Hand) I have arranged soprano, alto and tenor with string accompaniment and also playing a beautiful piece I found called "The love of God". They sing everyday as part of their music class and are now a good choir; I vary singers and players depending on the piece of music so they all get to perform vocally and instrumentally.

Sanjay teaching the younger students.

It is the start of the busy season with many programmes including playing in St Paul's Cathedral, Kolkata with the CNI Synod present in December. Six students are also taking their grade 5 theory exam at the beginning of November. The rest will take theory exams in March.

Thank you again for continued support,

Yours in Christ,

Ruth Pugh.
